Building Livable Communities with Transit

1624 Harmon Place, Suite 300L Minneapolis, MN 55403

October 20-23, 2013 in Seattle, Washington

Born in America's western frontier, the Puget Sound region has always pushed the boundaries – in geography and invention. At the cutting edge of aviation, online shopping, software and music, the region attracts the world's brightest and most creative workforce. With 1.2 million more people expected to move to the region by 2030, growth and innovation are driving smart investments in transportation infrastructure and land use.

Guided by Washington State's Growth Management Act, the area is designating urban growth centers and building transportation infrastructure to support dense growth patterns. With Sound Transit's $18 billion plan to expand 30+ miles of light rail, $7.2 billion being invested in the Alaska Way Viaduct Replacement Project and the construction of a floating bridge across Lake Washington, and the aggressive development of bike and pedestrian facilities, this transit-rich frontier is the perfect setting for Rail~Volution 2013 – where change is always possible!

Explore the bustling region to see, firsthand, the culture of innovation and the region's transformation into a diverse modern economy. Learn how to accommodate growth while balancing sustainability, neighborhoods and community values.

Citizen activists, developers, non-profit and business leaders, planners, local elected officials, community advocates, transit operators, government officials. They'll be here. Will you? Join the movement! See you in October!
